Applicants should normally have: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A second class honours undergraduate degree or above in any discipline awarded by a UK University or a recognised overseas institution, or • An equivalent qualification accepted by the Academic Registry of the University, or • A professional qualification deemed to be of an equivalent standard. Those without formal qualifications are welcome to apply, and may be required to come in for an interview. Additionally, these applicants will need to provide evidence of a minimum of three years of middle to senior management relevant experience. Successful applicants must have competence in the English language. For international applicants whose first language is not English, the requirement is that they have IELTS 6.5 (with minimum 6.0 in all four components) or equivalent. N.B. PG/Diploma and PG/Cert are entry and exit awards. Therefore, the criteria for admission for PG/Diploma and PG/Cert are the same as for the MSc degree.
10. Aims of the programme
The MSc in Corporate and Marketing Communications aims to prepare students for successful employment by encouraging the development of a range of knowledge and skills that will enable them to work effectively, both collaboratively and individually. It is designed to develop students' understanding of corporate and brand communication and its integration into an organisation's overall communication strategy.

The MSc Corporate and Marketing Communications will help students with no or limited knowledge of marketing to develop an advanced level of understanding and critical reflection of the key marketing communication theories and frameworks. Students will develop a sound understanding and appreciation of the diverse traditional and growing number of digital media platforms through which corporate and brand messages can be communicated. A key tenet of the programme is the focus on experiential based learning and practical hands-on application of knowledge to a range of strategic communication issues.

On successful completion of this programme, graduates will be able to critically evaluate complex situations, to problem solve, to write clearly and analytically, to work together and independently and to communicate. They will be able to retrieve and synthesise information from a diverse range of sources to develop well-informed and justified solutions to marketing challenges. The achievement of these aims will provide our MSc Corporate and Marketing Communications graduates with the knowledge and skills required to build a career in marketing. Whether our graduates wish to work as marketing managers, brand and creative consultants, analysts, researchers or entrepreneurs, the programme will allow them to acquire both general and specialised knowledge required to start building their chosen careers. The choice of dissertation will provide students with an opportunity to further develop specialist skills and knowledge in a field they are particularly interested in. For those students intending to further their education, the MSc in Corporate and Marketing Communications will equip them with a range of skills required for Doctoral level study.

In the case of the Masters awards these aims will be realised in full. For earlier exit awards, achievement of the aims will be as follows:

- For the Diploma, all aims stated above with the exception of completion of dissertation outcomes.
- For the Certificate exit award, aims will be achieved at an initial core, but not specialist level.

11. Programme outcomes

A. Knowledge and Understanding

On completion of this programme the successful student will have knowledge and understanding of:

A1. The role of strategic marketing communication in contemporary organisations and its integral relationship with other functional areas within businesses;

A2. External and internal factors which impact on the development of and influence upon the role of integrated corporate and brand communication strategies designed to engage, persuade and influence target audiences through the diverse media landscape within which both organisations and individuals exist;

A3. Key frameworks, concepts, theories and developments in corporate communication strategy and their application to real-life marketing scenarios across a diverse range of organisational and environmental contexts, which also include the impact of globalisation, economic, ethical, legal and social challenges on marketing communication practice;

A4. A range of key techniques and communication strategies which allow marketers to connect with consumer decision making processes, brand values and relationships, as well as allowing the development of a corporate brand and identity narrative through creative and innovative approaches to communication;

A5. A range of tactical communication tools available to marketers to deliver corporate and brand messages in order to persuade and influence clearly identified audiences through innovative use of traditional and digital media platforms;

Teaching/Learning Methods

Students gain knowledge and understanding through attendance, participation and engagement with lectures, seminars, independent study, group debate and discussion, and producing theoretical and practical work in response to assignment requirements. Students will have the opportunity to receive presentations by industry practitioners and experts in the fields of marketing communication and brand management. Such presentations will build on topics discussed in class and will improve understanding of topics required for summative assessment.

Assessment Methods

Students' knowledge and understanding is assessed through a range of methods such as reports, literature reviews, presentations, and examinations. Assessment is designed to develop student skills in critical thinking and application, as well as a sound and comprehensive knowledge of relevant theories, frameworks and models. An integral feature of the programme is its emphasis on experiential learning and practically applied assessments, designed to improve student understanding of the 'real world' and further enhance employability prospects.
